THE CAPITAL JOURNAL.

HIGHEST OF ALL IN LEAVENING POWER.—LATEST U. S. GOV'T REPORT

HOFFER BROTHERS, - - - Editors.

PUBLISHED DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY, BY THE Capital Journal Publishing Company. (Incorporated.) Office, Commercial Street, in P. O. Building numbered at the postoffice at Salem, Or., as second-class matter.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT was surprised when he returned from an enforced stay at the sea coast and found so many well-known friends alive and well who had not thought of going to the coast. Indeed some have even defied nature and spent the heated term upon the heated sand-dunes of Eastern Oregon. A few of our poorer citizens saved up their money since a year or two, not like this writer to go to the cool refreshing sea coast but to attend a month of Knights Templars doings and Mystic Shrine performances where they rode on tropical camels, in the burning sun of Omaha.

One citizen who gets all the spare change taken in at THE JOURNAL still defies all orthodox theories about summer recreation by regularly going to New York, Boston, Baltimore and other overheated, blistering burning centers of sunstroke, where natives will down by the hundred and he comes home fresh and rosy as a youth to greet his children and grandchildren, and labors the year through in his counting room, cheating the doctors entirely. People who go to the coast are apt to get an exaggerated idea of the condition of Salem. Most of them go with the absurd idea of commiserating the whole city for its sickly condition. THE SATURDAY NIGHT man has made a slight study of this matter and finds there are not as many physicians, regular, irregular, specialists and quacks as there were a year ago, and of the new alleged medical practitioners but few can hold out over six months when their money is gone and they soon follow, Salem has not as many of the medical profession as many little town in the country. Whether it is the skill of these medical gentlemen and ladies or the skill of our city cheeked, fresh looking citizens in avoiding them would be hard to tell.

One good woman who has been married nearly a quarter of a century has been ailing and bed ridden all summer. Several doctors have attended her, but she could not take their remedies and they went away puzzled pronouncing differently on her case. Her sons' and daughters' are grown and have gone to larger cities to seek their fortunes. They never come home. They never visit. To her they are dead. They give no sign of life. They do not remember mother. One of the sons is a successful business man. A daughter wins thunders of applause as a reader. But the aging mother does not share the joys of her life. The husband has his companions "on change" and is down town all day. Can you tell what ails the mother? She is dying for want of human love. We cannot live on bread alone. It must be spread with incense from loving hearts or it ceases to be the bread of life. It becomes a slow but sure poison and who can doubt but that this loving hearted woman will close her eyes in death. You ask does she live in our midst? May we not go and see her? Ah! there are many such all around us and we can carry an inferior class of heart affection to them. But we cannot bring what they pine for. No sea-coast air can change their condition. Those who are letting this worthy mother suffer a slow death should be whipped with whips of scorpions they undoubtedly will be when their consciences come before the great source of light and love for a final accounting. But we have wandered far from summer resorting.

By far the hottest summer resorting has been going on in the Tennessee miner's camps, at Homestead and Buffalo. Our sympathy was with the switchmen at Buffalo. As a rule they are an older class of men, unfit, not smart-looking enough for brakemen, conductors, etc. They have a tedious job with great responsibility attached. A wrong move plunges a train to destruction. A misplaced switch costs a hundred thousand dollars. In the hot weather these men have chafed since years for 12 to 14 hours. They have dreamed since years of ten hours a day. That would have been all the summer resorting they would have asked. But they could not get up courage. This year they made a demand. It was done with exhibitions of folly and displays of violence. This was made use of by the corporation and magnified and telegraphed all over the land and the summer resorting of the switchmen ended in a dream. But they will get their vacation some time.

All these rambling observations only prove one thing, and that is that people may be well and enjoy themselves anywhere on God's green earth. There is no locality has a patent on red cheeks or good appetites. Seaside and mountains may Saved a Woman's Life.

Mr. J. E. Thoroughgood, writing from Georgetown, Delaware, says: "Two teaspoonfuls of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy saved the life of Mrs. Jane Thomas, of this place." He also states that several other very bad cases of bowel complaint there have been cured by this remedy. For sale by Baskett & Van Slype Druggists.

The Rich Man's Son.

The rich man's son inherits lands, and piles of brick and stone and gold. And he inherits soft white hands. And tender flesh that fears the cold. Like soft hands, and tender flesh, many diseases are inherited; especially tendencies to Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, and Stomach and Liver troubles; but there is a remedy, known as the "Golden Medical Discovery," which overcomes these diseases, and cuts off all tendencies toward a fatal result. Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, has put this remedy within the reach of all, so that even the poor as well as the rich, can obtain it. It is worth more to you than "piles of brick and stone and gold." Ask your druggist for it. It's guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The wonderful vogue abroad of authors with established reputations, even in the sensational line of writing, has yet to be paralleled in America. The day has not arrived when eager throngs wait for a New York, Chicago or San Francisco bookstore to open that they may get early copies of first editions, yet that sort of scene may be witnessed in Paris whenever a new book by a popular writer sees the light. On the publication of Zola's last book, says a recent observer, after morning the shelves of the booksellers were yellow with piles of copies, mountain high, of the new work, and hour by hour these piles dwindled down and were renewed by panting clerks. A new animation was given to the boulevards, and in every hand was seen the yellow book, so that a new color was given to the streets. An impressionist painter might make a very striking picture out of the subject, "Paris on a Zola Morning," and for this he would need not much more than his tube of light yellow.

Nothing is better calculated to take down the self conceit and abate the assumption of the human being who boasts himself the superior of all animals and lord of creation, than the fact that some of the smallest and feeblest of animated creatures defy him to his face, and, virtually putting their thumbs to their noses, laugh him to scorn. Every summer finds him fighting some sort, perhaps several sorts, of small vermin, and in nine cases out of ten the battle is not to the stronger. The army worm, the phylloxera, the doryphora, the squash bug, the cabbage worm, the curculio and the grasshopper and many other such small deer spoil his crops, damage his temper, decrease his income and augment his labor out of doors; the common fly, the roach, the water bug and even worse things invade his home and make the life of the housewife a perpetual combat, which, like freedom's battle, is never done.

It would seem so easy to rout these little creatures, which, when cornered, have no defensive weapon whatever, and of which, were they in a body, we could crush thousands by a single step. But yet, with all the study and ingenuity which have been expended on the matter, nothing has yet been found or invented which will permanently drive away mosquitoes, houseflies, roaches, water bugs or the pest which walks in darkness. Many nostrums are advertised to do this, but not one succeeds. It is not that they cannot be killed; spirits of turpentine, kerosene oil, indeed any kind of oil will kill every individual of them which it touches, but the destruction of individuals does not appreciably lessen their numbers. It seems utterly impossible to drive water bugs from a house where they have once established themselves. A few years ago they were considered as a pest peculiar to cities, notably to those cities large enough to have a system of water works. In New York they were Croton bugs, in Boston they were Cochituate bugs, in Portland, Me., they were Sebago bugs, and so on. But now there is hardly a country village within an hour's ride of any city which is not also infested with them.

Persian insect powder is the only thing which will dislodge them, even temporarily. Blown carefully into every crevice of the house, it makes them scarce for a few days, but its power soon evaporates and they return as before. This fact, with the additional disadvantage of its great expensiveness, prevents it from being generally used.

A thousand fortunes await the lucky person who shall hit upon something which will effectually destroy or permanently drive away these ubiquitous, annoying pests of the household. Until this is done, let us be humble, for now in vain we urge our feeble votes against our insect enemies. Mosquito bars don't bar mosquitoes nor doors of wire keep out the flies. Behind the kitchen's shuttling panels the water bugs increase by scores; the moths devour our furs and flannels, the cinch turns us out of doors. In vain we glory in our reason; small is the brain that boasts victory, while we are beaten every season by all these tiny, six legged things.

A Wonder Worker.

Frank Huffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found, before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued to use it and is today enjoying good health. If you have any throat, lung or chest trouble try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free at Fry's drug store.
